1. Preamble

The Promotion of Access to Information Act No. 2 of 2000, (“the Act”) came into operation on 23 November 2001. Section 51 of this Act requires that we, as a private body compile a manual giving information to the public regarding the procedure to be followed in requesting information from us for the purpose of exercising or protecting their rights.

Nature of Business

The Company is a short-term insurer registered in terms of the Short-term Insurance Act 53 of 1998 (STI Act) and has as its main object the carrying on of insurance business in accordance with the STI Act. More specifically, the Company operates as a mutual association licensed in terms of the Compensation for Occupational Injuries and Diseases Act 130 of 1993 (COID Act) to carry on the business of insurance of certain classes of employers against their liabilities to employees in terms of that Act.

We provide insurance cover to the building and construction industry alongside the State’s Compensation Fund, which is managed by the Compensation Commissioner. This Compensation Fund compensates employees or their dependants following injuries arising from occupational accidents and illness occasioned by industrial diseases.

We as a private body have compiled this manual, not only to comply with the provisions of the Act, but also to foster a culture of transparency and accountability in our environment and to ensure that members of the public have effective access to information in our possession which will assist them in the exercise and protection of their rights.

10.1 The Information Officer must assess whether there are any grounds for refusing a request for access. Where any grounds for refusal are found, a request for access will not be granted if:

10.1.1 the disclosure of the record would reveal evidence of a substantial contravention of, or failure to comply with the law or imminent and serious public or environmental risk, and

10.1.2 the public interest in disclosing the record, will clearly outweigh the harm contemplated in the provision in question.

10.1.3 the record consists of information about an individual who is or was an employee of FEM and which relates to the position or functions of the individual, including, but not limited to the title, work address, work phone number, the classification, salary scale or remuneration and responsibilities of the position held, or services performed by the individual and the name of the individual on a record prepared by the individual in the course of employment;

10.1.4 the record consists of information that contains trade secrets of FEM;

10.1.5 the records consist of information that contains financial, commercial, scientific or technical information, of FEM, the disclosure of which would be likely to cause harm to the commercial or financial interests of FEM;

10.1.6 the record consists of information supplied in confidence by a third party, the disclosure of which could reasonably be expected to put that third party at a disadvantage in contractual or other negotiations or to prejudice that third party in commercial competition.

10.1.7 the record consists of information whose disclosure would constitute an action for breach of a duty of confidence owed to a third party in terms of an agreement.

10.1.8 the record consists of information whose disclosure could reasonably be expected to endanger the life or physical safety of an individual.

10.1.9 the record consists of information that if disclosed would be likely to prejudice or impair the security of a building, transport or any property.

10.1.10 the record consists of information that if disclosed would be likely to prejudice or impair the methods, systems, plans or procedures for the protection of an individual in accordance with a witness protection scheme; the safety of the public, or any part of the public.

10.1.11 the record consists of information that is privileged from production in legal proceedings unless the person entitled to the privilege has waived the privilege.

10.1.12 the record contains information about research being or to be carried out by or on behalf of a third party, the disclosure of which would be likely to expose the third party; a person that is or will be carrying out the research on behalf of the third party; or the subject matter of the research, to serious disadvantage.

11. Affected third parties

11.1 The information officer must refuse a request for access to a record of the body if its disclosure would involve the unreasonable disclosure of personal information about a third party, including a deceased individual.

11.2 A record may not be refused insofar as it consists of information:

11.2.1 about an individual who has consented otherwise in writing to its disclosure to the requester concerned;

11.2.2 already publicly available;

11.2.3 that was given to the private body by the individual to whom it relates, and the individual was informed by or on behalf of the private body, before it is given, that the information belongs to a class of information that would or might be made available to the public;

11.2.4 about an individual's physical or mental health, or well-being, who is under the care of the requester and who is under the age of 18 years; or incapable of understanding the nature of the request, and if giving access would be in the individual's best interests.

11.2.5 an individual who is deceased and the requester is the individual's next of kin; or making the request with the written consent of the individual's next of kin; or

11.2.6 about an individual who is or was an official of a private body and which relates to the position or functions of the individual.

11.3 The information officer when considering a request for access to a record must take all reasonable steps to inform a third party to whom or which the record relates of the request.

11.4 The information officer must inform a third party as soon as reasonably possible, but in any event within 21 days after that request is received; and by the fastest means reasonably possible.

11.5 A third party that is informed of a request for access, may, within 21 days after being so informed make written or oral representations to the information officer why the request should be refused or give written consent for the disclosure of the record to the requester concerned.

11.6 The information officer must, as soon as reasonably possible, but in any event within 30 days after every third party is informed decide, after giving due regard to any representations made by a third party whether to grant the request for access.

11.7 If, after all reasonable steps have been taken a third party is not informed of a request, any decision whether to grant the request for access must be made with due regard to the fact that the third party did not have the opportunity to make representations why the request should be refused.

12. Notice

12.1 Where a request for access has been received, the Information Officer will notify the requester of receipt and the fact that the requester will not be charged a request fee. The notice must state:

12.1.1 That the requester may lodge a complaint with the Information Regulator or an application with a court against the FEM for failure to comply with a request for access to information; the Information Officer to whom the request is made, must as soon as reasonably possible, but in any event within 30 days, after the request has been received in the prescribed format:

12.1.2 Decide in accordance with PAIA whether to grant the request, and

12.1.3 Notify the requester of the decision and, if the requester stated that he or she wishes to be informed of the decision in any other manner, inform him or her in that manner, if it is reasonably possible.

12.2 If access is denied, the Information Officer must notify the requester in writing that it is not possible to provide access to that record. The notification must provide full account of all steps taken to find the record in question or to determine whether the record exists, as the case may be.

13. Records that cannot be found and do not exist

13.1 If all reasonable steps have been taken to find a record requested and there are reasonable grounds for believing that the record is in the private body's possession but cannot be found or does not exist, the head of the private body must, by way of affidavit or affirmation, notify the requester that it is not possible to give access to that record.

13.2 The affidavit must give a full account of all steps taken to find the record in question or to determine whether the record exists, as the case may be, including all communications with every person who conducted the search on behalf of the head.

13.3 Submission of an affidavit is regarded as a decision to refuse a request for access to the record concerned.

13.4 If, after notice is given and the record in question is found, the requester concerned must be given access to the record unless access is refused on a ground for refusal.

14. Fees:

14.1 A requester who seeks access to a record containing personal information about that requester is not required to pay the request fee. Every other requester, who is not a personal requester, must pay the required request fee:

14.1.1 The head of the private body must notify the requester (other than a personal requester) by notice, requiring the requester to pay the prescribed fee (if any) before further processing the request [Section 54(1)].

14.1.2 The fee that the requester must pay to a private body is R50. The requester may lodge an application to the court against the tender or payment of the request fee [Section 54(3)(b)].

14.1.3 After the head of the private body has made a decision on the request, the requester must be notified in the required form.

14.1.4 If a requester has requested access in a particular form but access in that form is refused, the fee charged may not exceed what would have been charged if that requester had been given in the form requested.

14.1.5 If the request is granted then a further access fee must be paid for the search, reproduction, preparation and for any time that has exceeded the prescribed hours to search and prepare the record for disclosure [Section 54(6)].

15. Severability

15.1 If FEM receives a request for access to a record containing information which may or must be refused, every part of the record which does not contain and can reasonably be severed from the part that contains any such information must be disclosed.

16. Appealing request decisions

16.1 A requester that is aggrieved by a decision of FEM's information officer can apply within 30 days to a court.

16.2 This application must be lodged with a High Court or another court having jurisdiction.

16.3 The court hearing the application may examine any record of any private body.

16.4 The court hearing the application may grant any order that is just and equitable including:

16.4.1 confirming, amending or setting aside the decision which is the subject of the application concerned.
